DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the abstract should be in the form of a single paragraph of no more than 15 lines or 150 words. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 11-13, 15 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP'933. JP'933, in the English language abstract supplied by the applicant for example, teaches a method and apparatus for the cooling of metallic strips including a main cooling roller (1) and support rollers (2) each of which include cooling means which show all aspects of the above claims since the term “a resiliently deformable and thermo-capacitive material” could be met by any material including the roll material of JP'933 since all materials are to some extent resiliently deformable and have some degree of thermo-capacitance, and the claims give no minimum limits for these terms.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 18 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP'933. as applied to claim 15 above, JP'933 shows all aspects of the above claims except the recitation that the support roller be of any particular size, although the recited roller sizes fall within that which is broadly allowed by JP'933 and the rollers of JP'933 operate in substantially the same manner with substantially the same stated results as those instantly claimed. It has been well settled that motivation to alter the size of a component shown by the applied prior art without materially altering the operation or effect of the component, would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. See MPEP 2144.04 IV A. In the instant case, motivation to alter the size of the support rollers of JP'933 to any other equally useful size would have been a modification obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 14, 16 and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 1793

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Yoshioka et al is also cited as a further example of prior art roll cooling methods and apparatus for the cooling of metallic strips.
